

Nikitas-Spiros Koutsoukis

Associate Professor in Decision Modelling and Information Systems at the Department of Political Science and International Relations, University of the Peloponnese.

Currently also serving as Dean, School of Social and Political Sciences of the University of the Peloponnese, Director, Masters in “Global Risks and Analytics” and a former Vice Rector for Finance and New Technologies (2016-2017).

Previously a faculty member at Democritus University, Greece (2005-2009) and Brunel University (UK) (1999-2002) with lecturing appointments at the Open University of Cyprus, Greece (2015-2018), Hellenic Open University, Greece (2002-2015) and London School of Economics & Political Science, UK (1996-2001). Further he has worked for a number of years as an information systems business consultant in the UK (1999-2002) and Greece (2002-2005) and has participated as a researcher of project manager in various projects funded for by the EU and Unilever among others.

He holds a Ph.D. from the department of Mathematics and Statistics, Brunel University, UK (1999) and a M.Sc. in Decision Modelling and Information Systems (1995) from the same university, with a first class degree in Accounting.

His research interests focus on enterprise Information Systems and Analytics (as a contemporary form of Decision Support Systems), Risk Management, and their applications in public and private sector organizations. He is the coordinator of the Research Group “Political Technology” which he founded in 2009 (<http://politech.uop.gr>). He speaks English and Greek.